The price of RSA white maize increased by 3% this week relative to the previous week, while the local yellow maize and US maize price decreased by 1.8% & 4.6%. The local white maize price remains high due to the low crop outlook compared to the previous year while an abundance of yellow maize is available globally. The price of local wheat decreased by 0.1% while the US wheat price decreased by 5.3%, as wheat planting conditions look good in Argentina amid the ongoing harvesting in the northern hemisphere. The price of local soybeans increased by 0.5% this week, market fundamentals corroborating with the lower crop expected this year, while US soybeans price decreased by 0.2%. The US Soybean price decreased as the U.S. Department of Agriculture's hectares indicate larger than expected hectares planted. The price of sunflower decreased by 1.2%.

Latest News Developments

The week was filled a lot of uncertainty following the establishment of the government of national unity as there national elections failed to have an outright winner. Markets were awaiting for a clear direction regarding governance in the country. The splitting of the agriculture and land affairs portfolios into two distinct departments is one of the significant changes. New agriculture Minister John Steenhuisen the leader of the Democratic Alliance, who has replaced Minister Thoko Didiza, now the speaker of the National Assembly, has a mammoth task ahead to ensure that the sector continues to grow amid the challenges faced by the industry.

The South African national government spent R2,04 trillion¹ in the 2022/23 financial year, representing a rise of 6,1% from R1,92 trillion in 2021/22. Stats SA's latest set of national government financial data shows how these funds were distributed. Just over half of total expenses in 2022/23 was allocated to grants paid to other levels of government, institutions and foreign governments. The contribution of interest paid on debt increased from 10% in 2014/15 to 15% in 2022/23. In fact, in rand terms, interest paid on debt more than doubled in the 2014/15 to 2022/23 period, from R114,8 billion to R308,5 billion. This represents an average growth rate of 13,2% per year, outstripping the rise in total expenses (up 7,2% per year) and all other expense items.

South African government, stakeholders seek further WTO support in citrus industry's battle with the EU. The South African government and industry organisations have requested that two panels be established at a meeting of the Dispute Settlement Body (DSB) of the World Trade Organisation (WTO) to examine the stringent citrus import measures being imposed on South Africa by the European Union (EU). The local stakeholders wish to address regulations around citrus black spot (CBS) and false codling moth (FCM) as they deem these to be unscientific and discriminatory. The measures imposed by the EU since mid-2022 require enhanced cold treatment for fruit owing to concerns over FCM, a pest commonly found in sub-Saharan Africa, and CBS, a fungal disease which leaves dark spots on fruit. South African citrus growers spend billions of rands every year to comply with phytosanitary measures to comply with international regulations, including those of the EU that the industry considers unnecessarily restrictive.

The Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries' Fund for International Development (OPEC Fund) has signed a cooperation agreement with the UN International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD). This will expand the existing partnership between the two agencies and strengthen the joint financing of food security and climate resilience projects, to support smallholder farmers around the world. Smallholder farmers are responsible for the production of 33% of the world's food.
