1. INTRODUCTION AND DISCLAIMER

INTRODUCTION

The Promotion of Access to Information Act, 2 of 2000, generally known by its acronym “PAIA”, was promulgated by Government to give effect to the Constitutional right of access to information held by the state or by private bodies. PAIA prescribes how members of the public must exercise this right and how public and private bodies must respond to such requests, including when requests may or may not be refused.

This Manual aims to provide information about the Department of Rural Development and Land Reform (DRDLR) to the public, as contemplated in section 14 of PAIA, in order to facilitate the accessing of records held by the DRDLR.

It is important to note that the information requested must exist in the form of a “record”, for example a paper document, a digital document, a map, a photograph, a digital recording, etc. PAIA cannot be used to request “information” which is not contained or recorded in some or other existing “record”.

The DRDLR is a relatively young department which was established in 2009. The DRDLR took over the functions of the former Department of Land Affairs, but also received the additional mandate of facilitating and co-ordinating rural development throughout South Africa.

As the DRDLR is still settling into its mandate and in the process of developing new legislation, changes in the nature and extent of the records kept are inevitable, however, the DRDLR will review the manual from time to time.

DISCLAIMER

All reasonable efforts have been made to ensure the correctness of the information contained in this manual, however, the DRDLR accepts no liability for information which may be incorrect or outdated. The contents of this manual are subject to PAIA and all other laws which regulate the provision of access to records and information held by the state, including the fees prescribed by such laws. If there is any contradiction between this manual and the provisions of any law (for example and Act of Parliament, a regulation, or a government notice), the provisions of the law shall prevail. This manual will be reviewed on a regular basis and any errors or shortcomings will be addressed as soon as possible.

2. FUNCTIONS OF THE DEPARTMENT OF RURAL DEVELOPMENT AND LAND REFORM (DRDLR)

The DRDLR has been given the mandate by the President of South Africa to develop and implement a Comprehensive Rural Development Programme (CRDP) for the country. To achieve this mandate the DRDLR embarked upon developing a fresh approach to rural development. The CRDP is focused on enabling rural people to take control of their destiny, with the support from government, and thereby dealing effectively with rural poverty through the optimal use and management of natural resources. This will be achieved through co-ordinated and integrated broad based agrarian transformation as well as strategic investment in economic and social infrastructure that will eventually benefit all rural communities.

The strategy followed by the DRDLR was designed to give effect to the DRDLR's vision and mission, which are the following:

- If third parties must be given notice of the request and especially if the third party objects to the disclosure of the records, the above process will take longer.
- If your request is refused, or you object against the fees payable, you may lodge an internal appeal in the form of Annexure B to the manual.

10. ARRANGEMENTS FOR PERSONS TO PARTICIPATE IN THE FORMULATION OF POLICY, EXERCISE OF POWERS OR PERFORMANCE OF DUTIES

Interested persons may participate in the formulation of policy, the exercise of powers or performance of duties by the Department in various ways, e.g. through consultation, making representations, and serving as members of certain statutory bodies under the auspices of the Department.

The following are the more general mechanisms for such participation:

- When the Department wishes to introduce a major new policy, the draft policy is usually published as a Green Paper (in the Gazette and sometimes in other publications, as well as on the Department's website), and comments and representations are invited from all interested persons.

- During the formulation of major new policies (Green Papers and White Papers), the Department also often establishes reference groups or groups of stakeholders which are consulted on a regular basis and which actively participate in the formulation of policy.
- All Bills (new legislation) are published in the Gazette for public comment before it is considered by Parliament.
- Various offices of the Department from time to time hold public participation/consultation sessions on various issues, such as communal property associations, land restitution, land reform products, new policies, etc. Please watch the press for details. Identified interest groups will receive invitations.

Apart from the above general mechanisms, the following prescribed mechanisms also exist:

- The Deeds Registries Regulations Board includes two private conveyancers as members, who participate directly in the formulation of policy and legislative provisions on land registration matters. These conveyancers are nominated by the law societies and represent the conveyancing profession on the Board.
- The Sectional Titles Regulations Board includes the following persons as members:
 - A private conveyancer nominated by the law societies
 - A private professional land surveyor nominated by the relevant council
 - A private architect nominated by the relevant council
 - An officer in the employ of the Council of South African Banks, representing the commercial banking sector
 - Two other persons having special knowledge of sectional title development schemes (representing developers or attorneys)

These members are from the private sector or the public, and participate in the formulation of policy and legislative provisions on sectional title schemes.

- The South African Council for Professional and Technical Surveyors, which, among other things, advises the Minister on matters relating to surveying, includes members who represent the professional and technical surveying professions from the private sector.
- The Survey Regulations Board, which advises the Minister on regulations in terms of the Land Survey Act, 1997, includes members from the surveying profession in the private sector.
- The South African Council for Planners, which, among other things, advises the Minister on matters relating to the planning profession, includes members from the planning profession in the private sector and persons representing the interests of communities who are or may be affected by planning decisions.
- When the Spatial Planning and Land Use Management Bill is enacted, other organs of state and the general public will be consulted on the compilation and publication of the National Spatial Development Framework. Consultative meetings will be held and interested parties will also be invited to submit written representations.
- When the Spatial Planning and Land Use Management Bill is enacted, the relevant Premier and the municipal council for the relevant geographic area will be consulted on the compilation and publication of the Regional Spatial Development Framework. Consultative meetings will be held and interested parties will also be invited to submit written representations.
- When a Regional Spatial Development Framework has been published for public comment, the public will have 60 days to submit written comments.

11. RECOURSE IN RESPECT OF AN ACT OR FAILURE TO ACT BY OFFICIALS OF THE DRDLR

There are a number of ways in which queries and complaints can be brought to the DRDLR's attention.

The first option is to try and resolve the matter directly with the official that you have been dealing with. If he or she does not address your query or complaint to your satisfaction, you may raise the matter with his or her supervisor or the head of the relevant office. See Part 4 above for the contact particulars of all the DRDLR's offices.

If that also fails, you can address a written complaint to the Office of The Director-General.

The DRDLR also has a call centre for the handling of all complaints and queries. An advanced Complaints Handling System (CHS) is currently being developed. It is anticipated that at the time of publication of this Manual the CHS will be operational. The public can lodge complaints and queries to the DRDLR, through the call centre, by:-

- a) phoning 0800 00 7095 (the call will be toll free if made from a Telkom line);
- b) faxing the complaint or query to 086 729 6066;
- c) sending an e-mail to queries@ruraldevelopment.gov.za;
- d) writing a letter to The Head: Call Centre, Department of Rural Development and Land Reform, Private Bag X833, Pretoria, 0001; or
- e) personally visiting the call centre (a "walk in query") at 184 Jeff Masemola Street, Pretoria. The reception staff at the building's entrance will direct you to the call centre.

Below are the draft standard operating procedures that the DRDLR has adopted, and plans to implement as soon as possible. In the interim, however, members of the public can already make use of the call centre, and the call centre will forward the complaint or query to the relevant office or section for a response. It is recommended that complainants first exhaust this procedure (lodging a complaint or query with the call centre) before addressing a written complaint to the Office of the DG.
