Latest News Developments

While the recent drop in employment in agriculture is marginal, Agri SA is concerned that this may be a continuing trend as farmers continue to battle load-shedding and high input costs. Agri SA comments followed the release of South Africa's latest employment figures by Statistics South Africa (Stats SA). Wege said that, amongst other reasons, the "perilous position" of the agricultural value chain was largely responsible for the loss of jobs in the sector. According to the Stats SA report, there were 12 000 fewer jobs in agriculture in Q4 2022 quarter-on-quarter.

The annual budget delivered by Finance Minister Enoch Godongwana in Parliament on Wednesday, 22 February, delivered some relief for those farmers struggling under the burden of load-shedding and rising input costs. Increases in taxes affecting the agriculture sector were moderate, with several rebates put in place. Eskom was given substantial debt relief of R254 billion over the next three years. Kulani Siweya, Agri SA's chief economist, welcomed the relief, but warned that Eskom now needed to demonstrate how it would use this opportunity to position itself for future sustainability and profitability. Theo Boshoff, CEO of Agbiz, lauded government for implementing a refund on the road accident fund levy for diesel used in the manufacturing process, such as for generators, from 1 April 2023 for two years to assist food producers amid rising input costs. Homeowners and businesses intending to invest in rooftop solar panels and other renewable energy sources would also benefit from tax breaks. Godongwana stated that individuals who installed rooftop solar panels from 1 March 2023 would be able to claim a rebate of 25% of the cost of the panels, up to a maximum of R15 000. This, however, only applied to solar panel installations, not inverters and batteries. Treasury was also expanding existing incentives to encourage businesses to invest more in renewable energy sources. Businesses could claim up to R337 000 in tax rebates in the first year of investment. Boshoff added that it was unclear which category farming businesses that operated as sole proprietors without separate entities would fall.

South African gross domestic product (GDP) declined by 1,3% in the fourth quarter (October–December). Growth was dragged lower mainly by finance, trade, mining, agriculture, manufacturing and general government services. Seven of the ten industries contracted in the fourth quarter. The finance, real estate & business services industry shrank by 2,3%. This was on the back of lower economic activity in financial intermediation, insurance & pension funding and auxiliary activities. As the finance, real estate & business services industry is the largest in the South African economy, the 2,3% decrease was the biggest factor behind the decline in GDP, subtracting 0,6 of a percentage point from GDP growth. Agriculture recorded the largest contraction in the quarter (-3,3%), pulled lower mainly by weaker production figures for field crops and horticulture products.
